

JEAN DU PLESSIS

GAFFER

Bio:

I studied cinematography at AFDA and then proceeded to find my way in the Film Industry. After a few years I realized my place was in the lighting department because cinematography is painting with light, where technical and creative meet. Small feature films and music videos was where I honed my skills and then I quickly broke into commercials where I learned most from Bruce Thomas as well as working under many other established gaffers. Here I developed my system and I am continually pushing to find new ways of delivering the final product. My cinematography background allows me to work closely with the DOP and have a clear understanding of what they want to achieve. When I do a setup the objective is to give the DOP as much flexibility for change as possible because making films is a organic process and we must allow for change to happen. Staying up to date with the latest technology is of utmost importance and knowing the right person for a specific task is what defines a leader. Speed, safety and efficiency is the main goal and executed with the utmost professionalism. I am a fast learner and I have learned allot in the last 20 years being part of the film industry.)
