KEY GRIP

Bio:

I am a Jhb. based key grip with over 20 years experience starting as an assistant , progressing to best boy and finally key grip - gaining knowledge and skills along the way by working with some of the top technicians in the industry.
Whilst predominantly working on commercials, I enthusiastically embrace any project wherever it takes me, and have been honoured to be involved in some exciting local and international projects over the years such as Die Antwoord music videos, a Drake short film, Tyla music videos, as well as being one of the few local technicians to be involved in the aerial rigging team on Mission Impossible - Dead Reckoning.

I believe that the film industry is constantly changing and evolving and that growth and learning is a continuous process. By learning from our mentors and passing our knowledge on, we can maintain the high standard and 'can-do' reputation the South African industry has worldwide. I don't view other key grips as competition, but rather as member of an extended film family whereby we, and the industry as a whole, can all benefit from mutual support, co-operation, idea sharing and brain-storming. In the end these artistic and technical masterpieces we create can only be achieved through collaboration and respect between multiple departments working collectively and cohesively in our respective crafts, with each allowing the other their necessary space and time to contribute to the overall magic that is our industry. ’
