

SICELO RADEBE

SOUND

Bio:

Towards the end of high school, Sicelo knew he wanted to be a sound engineer but the film bug bit him when he got his hands on an AFDA prospectus.

His career began when he was asked to record sound as a sound mixer on a feature film by John Barker called "BUNNY CHOW".

He then started working on a few reality shows that took him all over South Africa.

His highlight was when he recorded sound for a 24 episode drama series in Zambia and there received the opportunity to be a mentor to three young men.

He has been in the industry for 10 years and has gained valuable experience as a sound mixer.
